

OFFICE OF THE CHANCELLOR

February 27, 2026

To Whom it May Concern:

As Chancellor of Indiana University Bloomington, it is my honor to support our campus in its commitment to supporting students who are military affiliated.

IU Bloomington supports more than 500 veterans and nearly 750 military spouses and dependents. The Center for Veteran and Military Students assists veterans and military-connected students make the transition from the military to higher education and provides support and resources for these students during their time on campus. I am happy that is reflected by our recent commitment to providing a new space for the Center to amplify our ability to serve these students.

Since Indiana University was founded in 1820, our connection to those who serve our country through the United States military has included students, staff, faculty, and even trustees. Beginning with the War of 1812 and continuing through recent conflicts, members of our Indiana University Bloomington community have stepped up to serve.

Both throughout our history and today, we remain firmly committed to serving this important part of our student body. Our military affiliated students bring a richness and unique perspective to the student experience at IU Bloomington. We recognize our obligation to them and steadfastly work to provide them with a fulfilling and productive academic experience.

Respectfully,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "David Reingold".

David A. Reingold
Chancellor
Indiana University Bloomington